Nine East 33rd

Energy Problem

Nine East 33rd Street is a new, state-of-the-art apartment community specifically developed for university students in Baltimore. The project features fully-inclusive rent that covers in-apartment appliances as well as extended cable TV, Internet, water, heat and electricity utilities. The building also a fitness center and game and media rooms. Nine East 33rd Street experienced an increase in energy operating expense (OPEX) and needed help identifying ways to save.
